

1) Each cache line maps to a single shadow state cell containing a SampleId and the current owning ThreadId.

2) The SampleId in the shadow state indexes into the Sample Table.

3) Entries in Sample Table contain memory access info, call stacks, and type info for owner and contender threads.

4) The most recent allocated addresses for each TypeId are stored in the Allocation Table for the next round of sampling

